HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the 12-month period ended June 30, 2024, the Fund underperformed its benchmark, the S&P 1500® Index primarily due to stock selection.

PERFORMANCE HIGHLIGHTS

Positive contributions to performance came from investments benefitting from the increase in spending related to Artificial Intelligence. These contributors spanned multiple sectors - Information Technology, Industrials, Communication Services, and the Consumer Discretionary sector. In addition, the Fund's investments within the insurance and banking segments performed well, making the Financials sector the leading contributor to performance over the past 12 months.

The Fund's investments in the Information Technology and Health Care sectors were the primary detractors to performance. Across sectors, companies with negative earnings revisions were the biggest laggards. In addition, the Fund was underweight the Information Technology sector relative to the S&P 1500® Index, and this sector was a strong performer over the time period.

POSITIONING

We increased the Fund's allocation to small-cap securities, but it remains relatively underweight in comparison to the benchmark. Allocations to large- and mid-cap stocks did not change; we remain modestly underweight large-caps and overweight mid-caps. In terms of style, the Fund remains overweight value stocks, but to a lesser degree than in prior periods. In addition, we increased our growth allocation, resulting in a modest underweight versus our benchmark.
